To Whom It May Concern:

I am writing this letter of recommendation for Ng Gerald, who has just recently completed his internship with us from January 2023 to April 2023. I had the pleasure of working with Gerald as his internship supervisor at Intern Tech for the past 4 months. During that time, he contributed significantly to Coinhall, a core product of ours, and we were consistently impressed with his work ethic, dedication, and problem-solving skills.

First and foremost, Gerald displayed a remarkable commitment to learning. He quickly acquired proficiency in TypeScript, SQL, and server-side development using Node.js, despite not having prior experience in any of these areas. His quick understanding of new concepts and successful implementation in various assignments is a clear indication of his intelligence.

In particular, he was instrumental in the migration work that we were doing, and helped to rewrite a majority of the backend APIs to utilise our new data infrastructure. He also went above and beyond by helping to optimise the existing SQL queries that we had been using so that they were more performant. These are all complex tasks that require a deep understanding of software engineering principles and of our software architecture.

We found Gerald to be extremely dependable, communicative, and positive throughout his internship with our organisation. This work ethic of his is something that has been noted and praised by everyone who has worked directly with him.

In conclusion, I highly recommend Gerald for any opportunities that he may be applying to. His technical skills, dedication, and exemplary qualities make him a valuable addition to any organisation.

Sincerely,
